Foreword

This directory is a guide for people working in the catering trade and providing food and drink in the Cairngorms National Park. The list of local producers and processors has been put together by the Cairngorms National Park Authority, working in partnership with the Soil Association Scotland, on behalf of the wider food sector, as part of their Food for Life Scotland programme. Food for Life Scotland encourages more sustainable diets based on local, unprocessed, seasonal and where available, organic produce. We encourage you to use this directory and support local producers whenever you can.

Buying local supports the local economy. It creates jobs and benefits local producers, processors and others in the supply chain; keeping employment and money in the area.

Buying local helps local farmers and land managers carry on working in ways that take care of our special landscapes for the future. It helps us understand how and where food comes from, reconnecting us with the landscape and how it’s managed.

Buying local meets consumer demands and interests in food quality and provenance. Research shows that people are keen to see locally sourced fresh produce on menus*. The Cairngorms National Park is a special place with special produce which has all been grown, bred and developed in the outstanding natural environment of the Cairngorms.

Buying local reduces food miles. Cutting down the distance from “farm to fork” reduces road congestion, noise, disturbance, pollution and the need for packaging and processing of certain products.

This Directory has focused mainly on producers within the Cairngorms National Park but there are also fantastic producers on the fringes of the Park. Whether in Nairnshire, Moray, Aberdeenshire, Angus or Perthshire, quality local produce is on our doorsteps. Buying local produce to use on your menu is good for your business, the local economy and the environment.

Future information on producers in and around the Cairngorms will be updated regularly online at: www.visitcairngorms.com/foodanddrink

If you would like to find out more about food and drink in the Cairngorms National Park, please contact Ruathy Donald: ruathydonald@cairngorms.co.uk or contact 01479 870545

Cambus O’May Cheese Company

Cambus O’May Cheese Company, established in May 2009 by Alex Reid, specialises in producing artisanal cheeses with a Scottish heritage. The company was inspired by the cheese Alex Reid originally made with his mother on the family farm in Aberdeenshire.

The company’s aim is to recreate the flavours and textures of traditionally made Scottish farmhouse cheeses using the recipes and methods of yesteryear.

Our new purpose built Creamery will be based in the Cairngorms National Park. The site will be completed by Spring 2011. In the meantime cheese is produced at a temporary cheese making facility at Craigmyle, Torphins.
